

LIBRARY PRIVILEGES FOR RETIRED EMPLOYEES

Lifetime Borrower Card

An employee who has retired from Kwantlen Polytechnic University can be issued a 'Lifetime' Borrower card upon request at any KPU campus library.

The following library borrowing privileges are granted to qualifying¹ retired employees:

- May borrow up to five general collection items at a time.
- Loan period is 3 weeks with the possibility of one renewal if the item has not been requested by another patron.
- Certain material, such as journals, DVDs, reference books and course reserves cannot be borrowed but, with the exception of course reserves, can be used within the library.
- Replacement costs will be charged for lost or damaged material.
- Lifetime borrowers are not able to submit interlibrary loan requests nor borrow audiovisual equipment.

To obtain your Lifetime Card, go to any campus Library (on or after your retirement date) and identify yourself as a retired employee who would like to a Lifetime Library Card.

Accessing Research Databases

Most of the KPU Library resources, including the catalogue, research databases, electronic journals and e-books are available from guest-access computers located in each of our Libraries.

Offsite Access

Offsite access to our subscription databases is restricted by license agreements with database providers to current KPU students, staff and faculty. However, there are many open access databases that are freely accessible. Click here for a list of these databases.

¹ The Kwantlen Banner System must indicate a designation of retired to qualify.
