

Program Review Quality Assurance Plan

Quality Assurance Plan for: Department of Economics

Date submitted to SSCPR: November 24, 2016

Date Self-Study Report approved by SSCPR: December 7, 2016

Date of External Review: March 24, 2017

SUMMARY

Summarize what the program has determined - through evidence - about program quality (e.g. strengths, challenges, opportunities for improvement, potential threats, etc.)

Background: At present, the Economics Department largely provides service courses – in particular, introductory microeconomic and macroeconomic principles courses – for the School of Business [SOB] and other programs. The Department also oversees the SOB Business Administration Diploma [BAD], and presently offers an Associate of Arts Degree in Economics [AAE] as well as an Arts Minor in Economics [AME].

Strengths:

- Student demand for introductory principles courses is vast¹, creating significant employment opportunity within the Department.*
- Student demand for the BAD is significant² and stable. There is evidence for strong graduate performance upon transfer to Simon Fraser University, a common destination of BAD students.³*
- Within the BC postsecondary sector, the AAE is unique to KPU. Student demand, while remaining modest,⁴ has grown significantly in recent years. In addition, this credential is fiscally inexpensive in that it relies on courses offered to students in multiple programs.*

- Student survey data collected during the Self Study indicates interest in expanded upper level economics course offerings, and economic credentials.⁵

Weaknesses:

- Consistent with other postsecondary institutions, student performance in introductory economics principles courses is low relative to other programs, including other SOB programs.⁶ This reduces potential demand for economics course offerings beyond introductory principles.
- Student employment rates within the BAD and AAE are below provincial Ministry of Advanced Education [AVED] targets.⁷ Student satisfaction with certain forms of skill development within the BAD and AAE – in particular, effective speaking and writing – are below AVED targets.
- Aside from the BAD, the Economics Department’s credential offerings are unworkable for the department’s biggest source of potential clients – business students. The Arts course requirements of the AAE and AME are unattainable for SOB majors – SOB degree requirements leave insufficient credit room for the AAE or AME.
- The market potential for continued expansion of the AME appears limited within the current Arts Double Minor framework.

Challenges/threats:

- The primary BAD market – transfer to 4-year business programs at major universities like SFU - appears to be shrinking, in part because of the creation of learning partnerships between the major universities and transfer schools that compete with KPU.⁸
- Significant funding challenges for undergraduate education limit SOB ability to support expanded upper level economics course offerings or the creation of new credentials requiring additional courses.

Opportunities for improvement:

⁵ For a presentation and discussion of the data, see the Self Study Report, p.26.

⁶ See the discussion of IAP Academic Performance Profile data on p.21 of the Self Study Report.

⁷ See the results reported by IAP, as discussed on pp.23-25 in the Self Study Report.

⁸ See the discussion on pp.8-10 in the Self Study Report.

- A SOB re-accreditation emphasis on the introduction of learning outcome assessment [LOA] systems holds promise for education quality improvements in Economics courses and programs.
- With an emphasis on positive performance data at receiving institutions, enhanced marketing efforts could counteract challenges faced by the BAD.
- A shift in focus from the present AME to a Minor in Economics affiliated with SOB major programs [a “Minor in Economics,” or ME] could tap a substantial market within the Faculty. The need to create additional, credential-specific offerings for a ME can be minimized by reliance on adjustments made within existing course offerings.

QUALITY ASSURANCE GOALS

List the program’s Quality Assurance Goals (broad statements about what the program intends to accomplish to ensure program quality). Identify the Recommendation(s) – drawn from the Self-Study Report and External Review Report - each Goal addresses. Provide a brief Rationale for each Goal (see the Quality Assurance Plan Guidelines for instructions). Add or remove rows as necessary.

GOAL 1: Establish a consistent and impactful connection with program industry stakeholders.

RATIONALE FOR THIS GOAL: The Economics Department currently lacks a consistent connection with program stakeholders [e.g. employers of SOB or Economics credential graduates]. If properly structured, such connection would assure program quality by providing necessary industry input. A feasible solution is to form a compact program advisory committee [PAC], established through existing Department connections [e.g. a 4 member PAC, including a Chief Economist from a BC industry sector and a representative from the BC financial services firm].

Connection with industry stakeholders aligns the Economics Department with the Faculty and University mission of blending theory with practice and the vision to establish authentic, collaborative external relationships.

Recommendation(s) this Goal Addresses	Report (page number)
Both the Self-Study Report [SSR] and External Review Report [ERR] strongly recommend establishment of industry connections, primarily through the establishment of a PAC.	SSR – 17, 31, 32, 34 ERR – 3, 4, 6

GOAL 2: Improve student performance in existing Economics course offerings.

RATIONALE FOR THIS GOAL: Student success in Economics course offerings is low relative to other programs – in particular, Business programs. This problem is recognized in both the SSR and ERR. Improved student performance will increase student satisfaction and enhance demand for Economics program offerings. A feasible solution exists – the creation and implementation of on-going learning outcome assessment [LOA] systems - including provisions for student feedback - for Economics programs. Such systems, a requirement for SOB re-accreditation, may especially benefit economics programs.

Improved student performance addresses the SOB Vision by enhancing the likelihood of developing exceptional students. Regarding SOB Mission, student success perpetuates the virtuous circle of student engagement and inspiration. At the Institution level, achievement of this goal validates the University’s mission to provide opportunity for success, and lays groundwork for the vision of student engagement.

The SSR highlights the lack of economics student success relative to other programs, and the need to seek answers.	SSR – 21, 22
The ERR notes that lack of student success in Economics is a problem common to other postsecondary institutions [e.g. SFU]. While the ERR does not offer a solution, implementation of LOA systems is a feasible option.	ERR – 5

GOAL 3: Create greater student and stakeholder awareness of the strengths of the existing BAD and AAE, as well as awareness of opportunities associated with future program offerings.

RATIONALE FOR THIS GOAL: The strengths of current Economics programs are not recognized by industry or potential students. A focused marketing campaign can enhance awareness and assist enrollment, and by establishing a quality claim in the market, strengthen faculty commitment to and accountability for program quality. The department anticipates a resource-modest marketing effort that leverages positive stakeholder feedback gained through the PAC.

Student and stakeholder awareness of opportunities for success through KPU programs is an essential first step toward the fulfillment of SOB and University mission and vision. Strategic marketing through stakeholder networks achieves the additional objectives of external relationship and collaboration.

Recommendation(s) this Goal Addresses	Report (page number)
The SSR notes the lack of visibility associated with existing Economics programs, and the need for a strategic marketing effort.	SSR – 31, 33
The ERR recognizes the overall importance of marketing effort, and notes that industry awareness is essential for the success of new Department initiatives such as a new ME.	ERR – 5, 3

GOAL 4: Provide Business students the competencies and opportunities that arise from the alignment of economics with business practice.

RATIONALE FOR THIS GOAL: Students and alumni are requesting enhanced opportunities for Economics offerings and credentials. At the same time, they want offerings which are closely tied to business practice, delivering skills which are job-relevant. Delivering on this request will ensure the relevancy of Economics within the SOB. A feasible solution exists in the form of a new ME: credit-room exists for a ME within the existing SOB Major programs [i.e. Accounting, Entrepreneurial Leadership, Human Resource Management, and Marketing], and desired outcomes can be achieved largely within existing courses provided by Economics and affiliated departments [i.e. Business and Quantitative Methods [BUQU]].

Achievement of this goal will establish the Economics Department as a faculty-group that delivers industry-desired skills, and fulfills the SOB mission to produce organization-shaping graduates. For the Institution, goal achievement would further substantiate the University’s mission to provide programs that blend theory and practice and foster critical thinking. Consistent with the University Vision, Economics faculty will be inspired as they create a unique form of education value.

Recommendation(s) this Goal Addresses	Report (page number)
The SSR strongly recommends the Department pursue the creation of a ME with an analytic focus.	SSR – 8, 10, 12, 33-34
The ERR strongly encourages consideration of a ME with an applied analytic capacity.	ERR – 2, 3, 4, 5, 8
