KPU's Anti-Racism Pedagogy Tool Kit

Kwantlen Polytechnic University's (KPU) Task Force on Anti-Racism (TFA) released its final report and recommendations outlining a total of 64 recommendations for KPU in October 2022.

Adopting elements from the NorQuest College Anti-Racism Toolkit, the Office of Equity and Inclusive Communities and the Teaching & Learning Commons developed KPU's Anti-Racism Pedagogy Toolkit to advance the recommendations of the Task Force on Anti-Racism.

The Tool Kit equips instructors and instructional teams to implement anti-racist pedagogy in their curriculum and teaching practice across all programs and courses at KPU

Anti-Racism Pedagogy Tool Kit: EDUCATOR WORKBOOK

This self-paced Pebble Pad Workbook is a companion workbook to the Tool Kit - designed to help guide educators' journey as you translate the Tool Kit into practice—through reflection, planning, and evidence of your progress and change in your courses and teaching. The Workbook's design facilitates intentional use of specific Tools to meet an individual educator's goals.

Developed directly from each Tool, one will have an opportunity to engage in self-reflective prompts and questions, practical iterative activities, and scenarios that:

- deepen understanding of anti-racist and decolonizing pedagogy,
- foster learner strengths and community in safe learning environments,
- help implement concrete improvements to curriculum, assessment, materials, and classroom climate

The goal of this workbook is supporting educators to design and engage in equity, diversity, and inclusion practices, and fostering a sense of belonging, safety, and trust for every learner and member of the KPU community.
