Programs at KPU are categorized as either open intake or limited intake »

Open intake programs are open for admission at every intake cycle (Fall, Spring, and Summer) until all available seats for that intake are filled or the application deadline has passed. If you apply by the application deadline, meet the admission requirements, and an available seat can be confirmed, you will be offered admission.

Limited intake programs admit only a select number of students per intake cycle. Not all limited intake programs are offered at all intakes, and application deadlines are much earlier than for open intake programs. In general, they have supplementary admission requirements (such as portfolio reviews, interviews, GPA/minimum grade requirements for specific subjects) in addition to the general KPU admission requirements. These programs are often quite competitive, so you are not guaranteed admission to the program even if you meet all admission requirements and apply by the application deadline.
KPU-SUMAS PARTNERSHIP

→ kpu.ca/pathway

Kwantlen Polytechnic University offers a preparatory program called Pathway to Undergraduate Studies that upgrades your English to KPU admission standards. The best part is, you’ll be eligible for undergraduate studies at KPU after completion of the Pathway—no new application required.

How it Works

» When you apply to KPU for an open intake undergraduate program, we’ll assess your English level to see if you’re eligible for the Pathway
» You’ll be admitted to KPU as a Pathway 1 (beginner), Pathway 2 (intermediate), or Pathway 3 (advanced) student
» You’ll begin studying at KPU as a Pathway student, taking a mix of mandatory English upgrading and optional undergraduate-level courses until you complete all Pathway levels.
» Congratulations! You’ve now met the KPU Undergraduate English Proficiency Requirement for admission. You’ll continue your studies at KPU as a full-time undergraduate student.

How Long Is the Pathway?

From start to finish, the Pathway program is designed to take students one year to complete. However, you can complete the program in as little as one semester if you’re eligible to start at a more advanced Pathway level!

How Much Does the Pathway Cost?

Pathway English upgrading courses are assessed at a tuition rate of $658.03 per credit—the same as all other courses at KPU. You can expect to take between 3-12 credits of English upgrading per Pathway level.

Pathway at a Glance
