The Dark Web (Surrey Campus)

The unique features of the Dark Web are a distinctly different type of cyberspace. The nativity scene that marks the birth of any technology can be characterized by both hopes and fears. Dark Web technology must be understood on largely dystopian terms: as both the realization of much that was feared at the outset of the Internet – and the negation of much that was hoped for.

Once the payment is completed, you will land on a confirmation page giving you details of your registration and your payment receipt. The same information will also be sent to you via email.

A screenshot of a confirmation page from a web application. At the top, a progress bar shows four steps: 'Your order', 'Your information', 'Payment', and 'Confirmation', all marked with green checkmarks. The 'Confirmation' step is currently active. Below the progress bar, the page title is 'Confirmation' with a lock icon. To the right are links for 'Return to store', 'Share' (with a Facebook icon), and 'Print'. The main content area contains a green message: 'Your order has been successfully completed.' followed by 'Invoice Number: 6330997' and 'Date: 6/9/2019'. Below this is a note: 'You will receive a confirmation email including this invoice and receipt shortly.' The page is divided into two columns. The left column is for the 'Client' (John Smith) with address details. The right column is for the 'Organization' (Third Age Learning at Kwantlen) with address details. Below these columns is a section for 'Session activities' which lists a single activity: 'TALK Activities - Business and Technology - The Dark Web' for $15.00, with participant 'John Smith'. The activity details include the schedule (Monday, September 30, 2019, 7:00 PM to 8:50 PM) and location (Surrey Campus, Cedar Building, Room 1205A).
